

To whom it may concern:

It is my pleasure to support Sara Arbel in her work as a professional coach, lecturer and trainer.

Sara has been a trainer for CoachInc.com for many years, successfully supporting our students in gaining an understanding of coaching, communication skills, business development and personal evolution.

As a lecturer and facilitator of learning, she is a remarkably powerful woman. In our community, she leads many courses that support a variety of different venues. For example, her work with our corporate students on leveraging the human spirit in business is excellent. In addition, her work with language and words is profound, supporting Personal and Corporate communication styles that generate positive outcomes.

In short, her ability to be a light to our community, in a time of war in her own area, has had a profound affect on all that take her classes.

I recommend Sara as someone who will have an effect on all she speaks to. Issues of self-management, people management, leadership, and personal evolution are but a few of the offerings she has to share.

Please feel free to contact me directly, should you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Pamela Richarde, Master Certified Coach
Director of Training, CoachInc.com
pam@coachinc.com